Meade Mountain Tells Story Of Killing Uncle

Cumtland in a large measure corroborated the testimony of Grant fired. On cross examination counsel queried concerning some statements he had made to an attorney on February 2, or six days after the killing. He said if he had made those statements it was because he was frightened but that he did not intend relating the facts.

Mrs. Inel said, after taking the men's dinner to the quarry she left about 12 o'clock and went to the home of James Mountain and Meade James with Mrs. Mountain and Meade James was not home at the time. While waiting, she said some one remarked that Jasper Mountain was going down the road. She said she had seen Meade Mountain with a stone in his hand but did not see what he did with it.

Mrs. James Mountain, mother of the defendant, testified that Meade had left the house about 1 o'clock on the afternoon of the shooting and returned shortly after 4 o'clock. She and Meade then started for the quarry but stopped before they reached it. Meade called Grant inel to come to the quarry. Inel asked Meade if he had any tobacco, saying that Grant had taken his away with him and that Meade handed him over a small amount in a package. This was the only thing, she said, she saw Meade give him. William Burkett had testified that he saw Meade hand Grant something from his pocket. On cross examination Attorney McKean said: "You are the mother of the defendant?" to which she answered in the affirmative, and he added: "Then I have no questions to ask you."

Grim Reaper

MRS. H. J. MUTH.

Mrs. Henrietta Bower Muth, 48 years old, a former well-known resident of Connelville, died Friday night at her apartment at Atlantic city. She had been in poor health for some time past.

Mrs. Muth was born in Philadelphia, a daughter of the late Isaac Newton and Henrietta Rhea Bower of Philadelphia. Her parents having died when she was quite small she was reared by her uncle, the late I. W. Butler of Connelville.

She was twice married. Her first husband was Edgar Bell Powell of Connelville. Following the death of Mr. Powell, which occurred a number of years ago, his widow taught in the Second ward schools here. Later she was married to H. J. Muth of Pittsburg, who was chief detective of Allegheny county for a number of years. He died over eight years ago.

Mrs. Muth disposed of her property in Pittsburg and had expected to spend the summer in Atlantic City and the winter in Palm Beach, Fla. With her sister, Miss Mary Bower, she spent the past winter in California, going from there to Atlantic City. Mrs. Muth has relatives and a wide circle of friends in Connelville. One son, Edgar W. Powell, to the first marriage, now in the state treasurer's office at Harrisburg and the following brothers and sisters survive: W. M. Bower, Connelville; Harry Bower, Philadelphia, Celeste, married and residing in the west; Miss Mary Bower, who was with Mrs. Muth in Atlantic City and the E. Bower, Connelville. Deceased brothers are Newton Bower, who died in infancy and George

WARE WASTE AND WEAR WELL!

Human Bodies Are Poisoned by Their Own Waste. Most Illnesses Are Preventable.

The human body has to be heated and the waste burned inside the body. The waste is removed from the body regularly, daily, by the eliminative organs, which are the bowels, kidneys, skin, and to some extent the lungs. These should act in harmony. If the bowels are inactive extra effort is required of the others, which easily become deranged. Many medicines, which are advertised as temporary but the after-effects are harmful. Many remedies are advertised as being of reliable effect, year after year, to be reliable, efficient, and without harmful action or effect. Take Beecham's Pills for example. For over 70 years Beecham's has been a household word all over the world. 70 years of use by all sorts of folks, men, women and even children, have proven first, that Beecham's Pills do what is claimed for them; second, that they are harmless; do not produce bad effects. Some medicine forces Nature to unnatural action. Other medicines, like those contained in Beecham's Pills assist Nature, act mildly, persuade and hence produce no harmful effects. It is common to find families in which Beecham's have been used by several generations, their use handed down from father to son and from mother to daughter. That's the best possible recommendation for any remedy. Every druggist sells Beecham's, is glad to do so, because he knows that their reputation has been won by merit.

Weather Favorable for Large Increase in Game For Next Fall Shooting

By Associated Press.

HARRISBURG, June 23.—Mexican quail placed on state game preserves this year are doing well and have not migrated, according to Seth E. Gordon, secretary of the State Game Commission, who has just returned from a tour of inspection.

"The Mexican birds stocked this spring as well as those placed last year seem to be in fine condition and are the ring-necked quail which were put out last year. I saw some flocks of young numbering as high as 19," Mr. Gordon said. "We have also been successful with the rabbits we put out. The weather has been favorable for the game in every section."

DRESSMAKER MADE WELL

Followed a Neighbor's Advice and Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Vernon, Tex.—"For three months I suffered untold agony each month with pains in my sides. I found only temporary relief in doctor's medicine or anything else I took until my husband saw an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I mentioned it to a neighbor and she told me she had taken it with good results and advised me to try it. I was then in bed part of the time and my doctor said I would have to be operated on, but we decided to try the Vegetable Compound and I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I am a dressmaker and am now able to go about my work and do my housework besides. You are welcome to use this letter as a testimonial as I am always glad to speak a word for your medicine."—Mrs. W. M. STEPHENS, 1103 N. Commerce St., Vernon, Texas.

Dressmakers when overworked are prone to such ailments and should profit by Mrs. Stephens' experience.

Write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass., about your trouble. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

A Message From Hagan's— MOTHERS! This will interest you

This is how we safeguard the health of your children!

Children are the greatest consumers of ice cream, and they should be, for it is the finest food they can eat. But the ice cream you give them must be the best.

To make it 100 per cent safe for you, and your children, we are spending thousands of dollars manufacturing ice cream under the Carbonated method, science's newest and greatest contribution to food sanitation. We consider the added cost worth while because it makes it 100 per cent safe for you and your children.

Carbonated Ice Cream is always the purest

Prof. W. P. Heath, a specialist in food purity, discovered that he could increase the purity of ice cream to an infinite degree by freezing it in a sterile, germ-proof atmosphere instead of with air, which is never perfectly pure.

We have secured the rights to manufacture our ice cream under the Heath patent. This super-pure ice cream is what we offer to you.

Do you know what makes Ice Cream smooth?

If you examine ice cream under a microscope you'll find that it is full of tiny air cells, or bubbles. It is these minute cells of air which make ice cream eatable instead of being frozen hard like ice. Ordinary ice cream is frozen with air. Air is always dangerous in food. When you put up fruit you fill the jars full, then you sterilize them to drive out all air and seal them tightly with rubber rings to exclude all air. If you don't you know they will spoil.

The air which will spoil cannot fruits or vegetables should not be used in making ice cream. So we freeze our ice cream in a sterile atmosphere of pure, germ-proof gas. We substitute carbonation for aeration. So we add a final safeguard around this delicious product.

Hagan's Ice Cream is Carbonated

Carbonating ice cream increases its flavor and richness. You may have noticed how carbonated water brings out the flavor of fruit juices and syrups in your ice cream soda. Carbonating ice cream has the same effect. It makes a richer, more appetizing, smoother ice cream. An ice cream you will like much better and which the kiddies will love. Give them all they want of this wonderful ice cream. It is a splendid food for their growing young bodies. It will make them ruddy with health and strength.

When you ask for ice cream insist on being served

ALL HAIL, DUNBAR!

The plan adopted by the employees of the American Mangrove company, business men and citizens of Dunbar to continue industrial and business activity in the Furnace town, is quite the most noteworthy evidence of community interest and cooperation, that has come to public notice since the process of readjustment began.

Realizing that permanent progress in the matter of restoring normal conditions cannot be made a one-sided proposition, the employees, the company and merchants have had the intelligence and vision to see that each has a part to perform.

With a splendid spirit of willingness to prevent a closing down of the local industries, the employees have given careful and thoughtful consideration to the situation, and with one accord have voluntarily agreed to accept a very material reduction in wages. With an equally broad and fair understanding of its obligations and appreciation of its opportunities to be helped out in rents for houses occupied by employees. Knowing that they, too, are a factor in making it possible to restore the normal conditions, the merchants of Dunbar have given assurance that they will do their share toward reducing the costs of living.

With these groups of interested parties joining unselfishly in a plan to promote the good of each other and the community, Dunbar has taken a step in advance of many towns where similar action would be manifested by the corresponding groups. In this respect Dunbar is giving an example which, if followed by other communities, would have the effect of assisting to change the whole trend of the industrial and commercial situation.

During the war we did big things because we forgot the small things which had previously held us apart and prevented that degree of cooperation which is essential to great undertakings. If there was need in those stirring days to join hand and heart in efforts to win the war, there is no less urgency at this time for the same kind of mutual helpfulness to prevent this disaster of a prolonged industrial and commercial depression.

The people of Dunbar have shown that they are just as keenly alive to the needs of the present emergency, and just as resourceful and willing to meet it as they were loyal and faithful in meeting the requirements of good citizenship during the war. To this extent that this same spirit is made to pervade the atmosphere, and characterize the relations of employers, employees and business men in other communities, the sooner will the whole country begin to feel the stimulus of a return of confidence and the sooner will a period of enduring and unprecedented prosperity begin.

Nothing could be finer, or add more to a community's prestige, than to be instrumental in aiding these things to come to pass. For this reason it is fitting and proper to say, All hail, Dunbar.

The churches in the morning and the chautauque tent in the afternoon and evening will be the best places in town tomorrow, hence you will without excuse for absending yourself from services during the day.

The Fayette farmer boys at the State College swine-judging contest gave proof that the Farm Bureau is itself fairly well qualified to turn out capable graduates.

Connellsville feels very much at home now that it is back to its place on the chautauque map. You will feel better for having helped in the restoration.

Dunbar don't make much noise when it has the habit of doing some worthwhile things that draw attention to the Furnace town.

Don't shoot the weatherman. He's doing the best he can to predict us what season it is.

Admiral Sims has been reminding that the present is no time for verbal frolics.

Terrible Blow To Democrats

Harrisburg Telegraph.

In language more forceful than that of General Charles E. Dawes, of Chicago, gave vent not long since to certain convictions he entertained as to the possibility of saving money in government work. Now President Harding has taken him at his word and has given him the job of posing the budget, which in brief means that he is to have full opportunity to demonstrate the truth of his remarks concerning his ability to abate wastefulness and extravagance in government.

General Dawes is no more theorist. He has a wide and very intimate knowledge of the duties of the job to which he has been called; and it is not likely that more political expediency will prevent him from putting into effect consolidation, reforms and elimination of duplicate and useless offices at Washington in a manner that will keep the eyes of the country upon him.

President Harding gives evidence of being desirous of keeping his election promises of economy in government. The people expect that of him. Indeed, the only way in which any President can make good is to live up to his platform. He may make a few political enemies, but he will stand right with millions of voters who care no more about politics than that out of it shall come an honest and efficient form of government. Too many Presidents and other statesmen have lost sight of the fact that it is the people and not the politicians who in the last analysis are the arbiters of the fate of statesmen and parties.

The appointment of Dawes as chief expense slasher at Washington is a terrible blow to those Democrats who have been weeping because little had been done to reduce the cost of the government as conducted under President Wilson.

Dangers In Ripe Olives

Latrobe Bulletin.

The deaths of two women, in Greensburg, one of them among the most prominent residents of the town, from eating ripe olives, can not but lead to a further investigation upon the part of the government, regarding the food which in their case proved poisonous.

A year or two ago, in different parts of the country, a score or more of deaths followed the use of ripe olives, and an exhaustive investigation conducted by the government led to the conclusion that a certain "pack" was poisonous. This led to the withdrawal from the market in so far as we could find possible, of the olives comprised in the "pack" in question, with warnings being sent broadcast to dealers, not to sell the same.

It is almost impossible to believe that the olives which caused two deaths in the county seat could have been a part of the "pack" which caused so many deaths a year or two ago. It being most improbable that a bottle of olives could have been kept upon the market so long a time.

The conclusion from such an assumption would appear to be that there must be other ripe olives on the market poisonous in their character, by reason of some mistake made in their preparation for the market.

The circumstances call for a thorough investigation, at once, including an examination of all the olives of the particular "pack" involved, and their withdrawal from public sale.

The situation is one that should brook no delay upon the part of the pure food department of the government.

Miss Maoli Gilles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gilles of Eagle street, Mount Pleasant, and John T. Lipp, of Scottsdale, were married this morning at 3:30 o'clock in the United Presbyterian church at Mount Pleasant by Rev. T. N. Springer, the pastor. Miss Ruth Byers played the wedding march. Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Lipp left on an eastern wedding tour, on the return from which they will reside at Scottsdale. The bride was a teacher for nine years in the schools of Mount Pleasant. Last term she was a member of the corps of the Bradock schools. Mr. Lipp is a mill worker.

IT'S THE SOFT TIMES GOIN'.

It's not the hard times comin' that is frettin' of us most, it's the fact that competition's here once more. An' a fellow has to hustle if he wants to keep his job. An' the soft times is a little harder than before. It's the soft times that are goin' that we're sighin' for today. For the easy-money contracts now have up and blown away. To land a job was simple in the war times that have passed. And the profits flowed like water. And we got 't got the notion that the easy days would last. But we're back to competition and hard times. And we wait hard times are comin', but the fact of it is this—the soft times that are goin' that we sorrowfully miss.

Old prosperity has spoiled us. It has pampered us to death. We have made and spent at every bend and turn. For a time we've no occasion to give a thought to the future. An' we most forget the way to work and earn. Now we wait hard times are comin', but to me it just appears. It's the soft times that are goin' that is causin' all our tears.

THE COUNTRY PAPER

BY WALTER WELLMAN

After work we gather daily round the cozy fireside and we read the city daily, giving news both far and wide, and we watch the scandals brewing in the world both far and near, and we learn of things they're doing all about our little sphere. We all want to know the troubles of the folks we've never met. Though their lives may seem like bubbles, it's the finest treat we get. Though we couldn't do without it, there is one more precious sheet with a newness about it that is very hard to beat: It's the little country paper that we're looking forward to, telling every trick and caper that our friends and neighbors do. First we scan the local column and start in at once to grin, though we should be grim and solemn at the trouble Bascom's in, for we find his wife deserted and departed with his clerk; that old Bascom has asserted he will get him with a dirk. Though it's small town stuff that's printed, we are eager to see the core of every little thing that's hinted makes us hungry for more. It's the fact that we know Susie (she's the wife who ran away), makes the article more newsworthy, gets us going without delay. As we scan each issue weekly seeking scandals filled with zest, we are always praying meekly that they will not get us next.

— Connie Mack of the Athletics — in opening game of the Three-I's at Moline, where the club is managed by his son, Earl Mack.

JOHNNY POLLOCK WILL MEET K. O. MILLER OF THE NORTH SIDE, PITTSBURG, JULY 4

Slashing, slashing Johnny Pollock of Dawson, who is expected to meet the best boy of his weight at the Fayette A. C. show on July 4 at Slavic hall will be called upon to mingle with a tough opponent in K. O. Miller of the North Side, Pittsburgh. Miller, while no topnotcher, is a brawler who has earned his spurs through his knock out victories. The K. O. bid is a privilege of K. O. Caruso, one of Pittsburgh's best little battlers. Miller has done considerable fighting around Harrisburg and Philadelphia also in the city of smoke.

Circo has assured the officials of the Fayette A. C. that his boxer will in the Dawson sensation step at his best to gain a decisive victory. Pollock, knowing that he will be called upon to meet a good man has been in training for some weeks.

Not contented with the two bouts he announced the matchmaker of the club has signed Billy Carter the heavy-hitting good fighter of this city to meet a good boy.

With the three bouts already men-bares and enabled the Athletics to pile up enough runs to tie the score.

The Methodist team has now been on the field three times and has won one game and lost none. The first with the Presbyterians was called because of rain and last night because of darkness.

SUMMER BASEBALL IS OPPOSED BY ST. JOHN

Buckeye Coach Is Not in Favor of Proposal

Asserts There Is Ample Time for College Player to Take Up Professional Game After He Has Left His University.

Continuing upon the suggestion advanced by George H. Haff, athletic director of the University of Illinois, that the western college players should make their college careers a summer baseball tour for two or three years as an experiment, J. W. St. John, athletic director at Ohio State, said there is ample time for the college player to take up the professional game after he leaves his university. He should not be permitted to play in the summer for money and still maintain his amateur status.

With it is true that our amateur baseball players are not earning money during the off season by imparting knowledge learned in college to others, I am not in favor of allowing our baseball men to play for money during the off season.

There is ample time and plenty of opportunity for the good players to join professional teams after they have played their allotted time on college bases. College baseball is for the mass of students rather than the few who are exceptionally good.

I realize there is plenty of room for argument on both sides. If the majority of our athletes want summer baseball then I will have no objection to it.

At present, however, I am opposed to it and will not permit any of Ohio State's players to make a professional game unless such a rule is passed by the conference. When our players join our team they do so with the understanding that they will never have played a professional game.

At the same time, I have no objection to the college player who is a professional player in the summer. I have no objection to a player who is a professional player in the summer.

I believe that it is up to the amateur player to decide whether he wants to play. If he wants to play professional baseball, he should be permitted to do so.

After playing on our university team, a player can go to a professional team. I have no objection to that.

It was long ago that I was through his efforts that Chick Harley, Ohio's great halfback, did not play professional football while he was in college. Harley was offered large sums of money to play with professional teams in the Buckeye state.

Thomas S. Rice, the baseball expert of the Brooklyn Eagle, told this one on a Robin pitcher.

John Miljus used to be called the "promising" Pole from Pittsburgh, but he lost on his hind legs and sold all and moved that he was a Serbian by extraction although born in this country.

To prove he was a Serbian he began to cuss Bill Klem in a language which he said was the Serbian language. Miljus thought John had swallowed a drink of water the wrong way and never knew that the pitcher was putting something over on him.

George Sherrick Drives Home Run Over Score Board

George Sherrick of the Methodist Episcopal Church league team is making a reputation for himself as a "babe" in a game at South Connellsville recently. "Doc" made two of the four circuit clouts and last night when the Methodists played the Lutherans at Fayette Field he lifted the ball high over the score board between center and left field. The point is several feet higher than the fence and the drive is one that has not had an equal for a good many years.

The final score of the game was 11-11 and was called by the umpire on account of darkness. Sherrick's "bludge" came with two men on base.

LIMIT IN STAGNATION HAS NOT YET BEEN REACHED, IS BELIEF

Weak Passes Without Report of a Single Sale of Furnace Grade.

CONSUMERS DO NOT BID

Producers Have No Asking Price; Our Lots For Miscellaneous Furnace, 25 Net, Heating Coke, $2.75; Foundry, 25 Net, 25 Cents.

Special to The Weekly Courier.

PITTSBURGH, June 25.—Any idea that may have been entertained in the past two or three months that the coke market had attained the limit in stagnation is dispelled by the record of the past week. In some well-informed quarters in Pittsburgh the opinion is expressed that there has not been a single sale of Connelville furnace coke in the past week to any blast furnace interest. Of course that may not be strictly true, but the news of sales has not leaked out, and as the trade has plenty of leisure in which to investigate it is evident that sales have at any rate been altogether inconsequential.

There are always some consumers of standard furnace coke, not smelters. In ordinary times the purchases by these consumers are only a drop in the bucket, but now, when they continue and all other sales practically cease, they become relatively conspicuous, and they make what little market there is. If these little sales did not occur there would be no market at all to quote. In some commodities when there are no transactions the price is quoted on a "bid and asked" basis, but that could not be done in coke for two reasons, each sufficient in itself. There is no bid price on the part of consumers who do not buy, and no asking price on the part of producers who do not sell. Some operators may have what they think is an asking price, but the figure is really a price they wish the market would get to.

Sale of single carloads of standard furnace coke to miscellaneous consumers in the past week have been at $3.00 net to the consumer. If a broker intervened he got something out of it. There are rumors that some operators would be willing to sell at $2.75 if they could get orders of blast furnaces, say ten carloads, but as there is no inquiry $2.75 cannot be regarded as part of the market.

Heating coke is supposed still to be available, but whether it is or not, in any reasonable volume, is a question. Sales recently reported were at $2.75. Spot foundry coke is off about 35 cents in the week. For several weeks there has been talk of a "bid and asked" basis, but there is practically no doubt that this is not really standard coke. Regular foundry coke, seems to have declined from $4.50 to $4.25. Two well known brands are down to $5.00, while a third well known brand is down to $4.50, making a market range of $4.25 to $5.00. Sales are lighter all around than a week or two ago and of the $5.00 brands are naturally especially light.

Furnace coke on contract remains quotable at $3.00 to $3.25, according to period of delivery. While the market has been very quiet prices can be figured out easily. Two contracts were reported a week ago, one at $3.00 for the third quarter and one at $3.25 for a somewhat longer period, but not to the end of the year. One may assume that a contract to the end of the year would be at a shade higher still. Thus the market is quotable as follows:

Spot furnace..... $3.00
Contract furnace..... $3.00 to $3.25
Spot foundry..... $2.75
The pig iron market has relaxed still deeper into dullness. No transactions of the least consequence are reported. Basic is offered at $21.00 or 50 cents less than a week ago, and the market is quotable as follows:

Basic..... $21.00
Resomant..... $22.00
Basic..... $22.50 to $23.00
These prices are f. o. b. Valley furnaces, freight to Pittsburgh being $1.06.

An event of some interest occurred in the week, the annual settlement of Lake Superior iron ore prices. This is the latest the event has occurred for a generation or more. The 1937 prices are a reduction of $1.00 from the 1936 prices, or a return to the 1935 schedule. The leading item, Mesabi non-Bessemer ore, is now $5.55 at Lake Erie dock. At the beginning of the year most furnaces wrote off a dollar a ton on their ore inventories, so that there is no further bookkeeping to be done. The loss was taken and practically nothing was said about it. For some time past pig iron prices have been in relation to the expected price of iron ore, when fresh purchases should have to be made, rather than on the cost of the iron ore that had been used in making the iron, or the stock ore that is still to be used when the furnaces get into blast again. Just now the four prices are engaged in trying to tell the stocks of pig iron, and the stocks are moving very slowly.

Why That Headache?
When you know the cause of a disorder, you can often be affected. This is particularly true of headache. Headache often results from constipation or a disordered condition of the stomach which may be corrected by taking a dose of two of Chamberlain's Tablets. Try it. These tablets are easy to take and mild and gentle in effect.—Advertisement.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 24.—The Greeks are shortening the island front. As a result of the withdrawal of the 11th Greek division the Nationalists have captured Adazar and Pahanja.

At the Theatres

THE SOISSON.

"THE SILVER LINING."—A stirring drama founded upon actual occurrences in that picture by a cast of Broadway notables which is at the Soisson theatre today. Among the noted cast which makes this picture stand out in Louisville is the leading man for Madge Kennedy in "Corporal" and previously playing the same position with Ethel Barrymore in "De classe." Coit Albertson, Virginia Vail, Julia Swayne Gordon, Gladys James and Arthur Donaldson. The famous dancers, Carl Haysen and Dorothy Dickson furnish dance numbers. Roland West wrote and directed "The Silver Lining" which was adapted for the screen by D. J. Buchanan and C. H. Smith. It was photographed by Edward Wynaard and Frank Zucker.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"THE BEACH OF DREAMS."—One of the best plays that has been seen at the Paramount in many a day, is that on the screen today. It is a picture of real entertainment worth, with well known players appearing in the leading roles. The second episode, "The Fool's Play," of "The Purple Riders," a thrilling serial, is also included. Joe Ryan is seen in the stellar role. This smashing western serial might well be a Bret Hartie masterpiece with in celluloid, a quivering cross-section of one great phase of American life snatched from one section of one flaming period and reflected by the magic mirror of the screen to a public which has never tired of western thrills well done. It is founded on the master personality of one man, his hero, Dick Ranger, no "super" in his manhood, but the king of his kind.

THE ORPHEUM.

"THE ROUND UP."—The public will enjoy a rare treat in George Melford's production of "The Round Up" starring Roscoe Arbuckle at the Orpheum theatre today. That producers will remember the great success achieved by Edmund Day's notable play a few years ago. Maclyn Arbuckle played the role of "Slim Hoover," the fat and jolly sheriff. Another Arbuckle is seen in the screen version. The fat hero of the new Paramount picture, Roscoe Arbuckle, who by virtue of his famous Paramount-Arbuckle comedies has done his share to keep the world bubbling over with joy. This is the famous comedian's first appearance in a legitimate role, but he is said to have shown remarkable ability in his new work. The cast is virtually all-star, and the excellent photography is the work of Paul Perry.

Chiopyle.

OHIOVILLE, June 24.—Mrs. Sarah Robinson of Urbana is the guest of her daughters here, Mrs. R. C. Holt and Mrs. M. H. Hochstetler.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Glatfelter were recent visitors at Ridgeville.

Mrs. Alice McFarland and son, Morris, spent Thursday in Connelville calling on friends.

E. D. Mitchell returned to Ohioville Thursday from a visit spent at Confluence.

Mrs. Alice Holt attended the banquet at Confluence one day this week.

Miss Evangeline Jackson is the guest this week of Miss June Bird at Confluence.

OR, YOU VACATION

It's Almost Time to Pack Up and Go Away.

And whether your journey by rail or ship, or in a Rolls-Royce, or just a Tin Lizzie, better get a supply of Traveler's Checks at the old, reliable First National. They're just as good as cash anywhere and absolutely safe. Your valuables too, should be in the Safe Deposit Department of the bank before you start.—Advertisement.

An Advertisement Helped Her.
Mrs. Lucille Mackey, 16 Buena Vista street, Washington, Pa., writes: "Last winter my three-year-old girl caught a bad cold which left her with a dry cough. It bothered her most at night and she would cough until she vomited. I think she must have had whooping-cough. I saw an advertisement for Foley's Honey and Tar. I tried it and bought two bottles and her cough left her before she finished the second bottle. She had gotten awfully thin, but now she is as fat as ever." Sold everywhere.—Advertisement.

Former Editor Dies.
PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—Colonel James Lambert, former newspaper editor and at one time state insurance commissioner, died at his home here today after a lingering illness. He was 74 years old.

MAGNETIC STORM STIRS SCIENCE

Further Study of Sunspots Stimulated by Display.

ELECTRONS STILL MYSTERY

Some Astronomers Believe the Planets Themselves Provide the Disturbance Which Puts Telegraph and Telephone Wires Out of Commission—Sir Oliver Lodge and Professor Einstein Differ in Their Theories Regarding Electrons.

The investigation of the sunspots, like those which caused the recent great magnetic storm, is going on at many astronomical laboratories and is probably causing more interest among astronomers than any current work except experiments that are being made to check up the Einstein theory. While this magnetic storm can properly be called the greatest ever recorded, it is also true that a hundred years or more ago the earth's magnetic field has occurred and passed unnoticed. Such storms manifest themselves by their effect on electrical apparatus, and it is only in the last half century that a faint picture of their nature has been woven over the civilized world. In 1859 some sunspot might have launched a storm ten times greater than that of a week ago and the earth might never have realized that it had been hit.

The spot which let its some billion billions of electrons at the earth recently was not an exceptionally great one. The dimension of this sunspot, or sunspot cluster, was estimated to be 94,000 miles by 21,000. In February, 1922, the sun was spotted over an area 100,000 by 65,000 miles. All of the sunspots are believed to send broadwaves of electrons into the solar system, but the earth is a mere pinpoint in the sky in relation to the sun, and it escapes most of the sun's volleys of electricity by its magnetic shield.

Sunspots Blamed for Many Evils.
Westerners have held the sunspots responsible for the temperature on earth, for the clearness or haziness of the atmosphere, for the size of the rainfall, for the famines in India, and even for the earthquakes. They have been suspected of causing pestilences. It has been calculated that, if the planets line up as to exert all their gravitational pull at a particular spot on the sun, there will be an upheaval at that spot such as will cause "dire combustion and confused events," to say the least.

But the world has made little of many, before Mother Nature's time and place, who have predicted terrible calamities for it. It has swung through comets' tails or dodged them without losing so much as a blade of grass. The world and all its fellow planets and the stars are alleged to be moving for a head-on collision with a star system in the constellation Hercules. Some thousands of millions of years hence there may be a crash of those opposing sets of heavenly bodies in the arena of infinite space, but it is something for the calamity-bewailers of posterity to worry about.

The majority of sunspot scholars take no stock in the theory that the weather can be predicted by observing the sunspots, and work along that line has been generally abandoned, although a few astronomers believe there is a close connection between the two. On the other hand, the belief that the sunspots cause the auroras and the magnetic storms is almost universally held among scientists.

One of the theories now under investigation is that the earth itself and the other planets provoke the electron storms which are shot at them by the sun. As the gravitational pull of the moon rakes our oceans about, the earth and the other planets are thought to have some "tidal effect" on the sun. The sun's brilliant surface of the sun is thought to be due to the condensation of carbon gases. The plasma, especially Jupiter, and to some degree Venus and the earth, may prevent clouds of gas from closing over the entire surface, or may even pull them aside and expose lower layers of the sun's material which cause the dark spots and the shadows around them.

Cooler Than the Sun.
It is deduced from experiments that the dark spots are only about half as hot as the rest of the surface of the sun. The sun's surface is described as the apparent surface composed of gases many miles in depth. The spots are about 3,500 degrees Centigrade, or 6,300 degrees Fahrenheit, in the brilliant area. The cooler temperature of the spots is proved because the spectroscopic shows evidence of the forming of compounds such as titanium oxide, magnesium hydride and water vapor, which cannot exist compounded at the higher temperature.

The spots are accompanied by especially brilliant markings on the sun called faculae, which are brightest, largest and most numerous. According to E. Walter Maunder, superintendent of the British Royal observatory, there is not net loss of brightness in the sun because of the spots, but there appears to be rather a state of "over-compensation," the total of brightness being increased by the presence of the spots.

Whether the planets have anything to do with it or not, the spots are supposed to beek out with vast magnetic storms on the sun. The new standard theory is that they shoot huge charges of electrons into space. These are not sent out uniformly in all directions as the sun's rays are. On the contrary, each burst of electrons is supposed to take a point in the sun and follow a course something like that of a charge of shot from a shotgun. The earth stands in the path of an occasional bombardment, which hits the target with combination auroral displays and magnetic storms.

What Electrons Are Is Unknown.

What the electrons are is unknown. They are the sun's secret just as the last and smallest of things into which matter can be resolved, and everything is supposed to be composed of them. A particle of matter so small that it can only be seen through the microscope is, supposedly, a molecule or a world compared to the molecules which compose the sun. The atoms, in their turn, are relatively huge things, presumably composed of a kind of solar system of whirling electrons.

Electrical currents are thought to be the movement of streams of electrons. The particles that shoot from the sun are supposed to be electrons freed by the explosion of atoms.

The explosion of countless atoms, or something equivalent, is thought to occur with the birth of a sunspot, driving the electrons away from the sun in different directions. Light runs the 93,000,000-mile course from the sun to the earth in about eight minutes, but the electrons are supposed to consume from three to 48 hours in their flight to the earth. This supposition rests on experiment and on the fact that the auroral and magnetic storms often occur on each day or so after the breaking out of a new sunspot is detected.

Lodge and Einstein Differ.
Among the varying theories of the electron is one that it is a "center of elastic strain" in the all-pervading ether of space. This is the theory propounded here by Sir Oliver Lodge and denied by Einstein. According to the Lodge school, the electron has no mass, it is a small point of nothingness charged with energy. And of such electrons the earth and everything on it and the cosmos is made. These bits of nothingness, according to this theory, combine into atoms, and then into molecules, becoming parts of all substances, and these substances can be handled muscularly and make their impressions on our senses. But they are composed ultimately of pure energy, having no weight or volume.

This year 1937 was the last big sunspot year. There were spots on the sun every day that year. The most barren of recent years in sunspots was 1913, when the sun was spotted for 312 days out of the 365. In 1917, the average daily sunspot area was 2,500 million square miles as against eight million square miles in 1913. The sunspots follow a cycle of about eleven years and one month, reaching their maximum and minimum during that period, although not at definitely fixed periods. The planet Jupiter makes its trip around the sun in about the same time, which is not responsible for the theory that the planets cause the spots. There are four-year and eight-year cycles, which overlap the eleven-year one, however, and the astronomers have found the whole subject surrounded with much confusion.

Sunspots are occasionally visible to the naked eye, so that they have always been studied. The Chinese had a lot of theories about them many centuries ago. Modern work on them began naturally with Galileo, who began studying them in 1609, when he made his first use of the newly-discovered telescope. He got into trouble with the ecclesiastical authorities because of his assertion that the earth moved around the sun, and the early students of sunspots were cautious. Schekner, a contemporary of Galileo, wrote that he was rebuked for blasphemy by an ecclesiastical prelate, for presuming to report spots on the sun and that one of the learned doctors of the time urged that such spots could not be, because the sun was the eye of the universe and such spots would produce ophthalmia.

TRACES ORIGIN OF HAWAIIANS

New York Scientist Finds Them Cousins to Asiatics and to United States Indians.

Where came the ancient Hawaiians and others of the Polynesian race is a query which baffled the members of the Pan-Pacific scientific congress when it was in session at Honolulu last August, and which is answered in part by Louis B. Sullivan of the American Museum of Natural History, New York, who has been conducting investigations in the islands since the close of the congress. Bodily, facial and cranial characteristics of the Polynesian, according to Mr. Sullivan's tables, show that he is 11 parts Mongolian, five parts European, five parts Mongoloid-Melanesian and two parts Mongoloid-Melanesian. The seemingly unbroken connection is that the Hawaiians and his Polynesian brothers originally came from Asia.

The ancient Hawaiians were a race of regal proportions, the most commanding physically, Mr. Sullivan believes, the world has ever seen.

Polecats Become Food.
The spirit of economy caused by the high prices in Paris is leading people to eat animals only valued hitherto for their skins, writes the London Daily Telegraph correspondent.

It is now possible to buy at some shops near the central markets joints of foxes and polecats, and by way of variety the flesh of squirrels and hedgehogs is offered. It seems that these novelties are prepared for the table with varied success.

The perfect of poles is disturbed at the idea of people eating the flesh of foxes and polecats, and he has found it necessary to issue a circular, in which he points out that they run a grave danger, since some of the animals may have been destroyed by poison. After this, it is not expected that there will be a big trade in the new game.

President Heads Horsehoe Hurlers.
The honorary presidency of the National Association of Horsehoe Throwers has been accepted by President Harding. The President has always confessed a distinct partiality for the old-fashioned sport of horsehoe throwing.
